

Once novelty wears off, that which remains is of the essence

A perception of mind and body, yet the soul is given by God.

When all that glitters is not gold, one's true self begins to shine

For in these illuminating moments, the virtue of one's soul is brought to light.

Blessed are You, who has granted me the gift of a pure soul.